

Widow Slaying Suspect

Former Wife of Theodore Decker Is Accused of His Slaying in 1947

Mrs. Genevieve Decker Henderson, wife of G. R. Henderson, 1721 West Third street, was arrested this morning by Sheriff John Taylor and Sergeant William Barton on a warrant charging her with first degree murder in connection with the death of her former husband, Theodore Decker, on the morning of November 6, 1947. The charges were filed this morning by Prosecuting Attorney William F. Brown, after an extensive investigation started two years ago after his taking office.

"The persistent efforts of the State Highway Patrol, James Roark, a private investigator, Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors and various members of his department, in conducting the investigation led to the filing of the information for a state warrant," Mr. Brown said this afternoon.

It was explained the State Highway Patrol had been investigating the case and one trip was made to the State of California by Sergeant Barton and another member of the patrol to question persons who apparently had information on the incident. Many persons have been questioned not only in Sedalia but in various other towns in Missouri.

Lie Detector Test
Mrs. Henderson at the time of the murder was questioned by various law enforcing officers. She was taken to Jefferson City where she underwent the lie detector test the day of the murder, but nothing came of this test. She was taken again to Jefferson City several months later voluntarily, but the results of that test were not made known.

After her arrest at her home 1721 West Third street she was taken to the Pettis County jail where she is being held without bond pending a preliminary hearing which is to be set later.

Filed in Magistrate Court
The charges were filed in the court of Harold W. Barrick, magistrate of Pettis County shortly before the noon hour and a warrant given to Sheriff Taylor. They went to the Henderson home at once to serve the warrant.

Story of Tragedy
Decker was found dead in a small kitchen of his grocery store, then located at 1115 East Fifth street, by two local police officers Robert Knox and Melvin Shoemaker, about 8:00 o'clock on the morning of November 6. It was after an alarm had been made by William "Bill" Atkinson, 1906 South Stewart avenue, a driver of a Taystee bread truck, who found the store locked when he went to make his morning delivery about 7:30 o'clock.

Atkinson had talked with Decker at the grocery store of "Bill" Arnold at 1401 East Fourth street, earlier in the morning and Decker indicated then he was going to his store. When Decker didn't answer his knocks he returned to Arnolds, and then contacted Mrs. Decker and they returned to the store to find it still locked. The police were then notified.

Decker had three stab wounds in the heart, two of which went through the heart and one half way through the heart. There were only two wounds which punctured the body. At the time Dr. K. L. Holden, then coroner, said it was possible but highly

Reports Given To Lions Club

The Sedalia Lions Club held its regular noonday meeting today at the Bothwell hotel at which time reports of various committees were made.

Attention was called to the Children's Benefit project held the past weeks which netted enough funds to handle the various children's activities of the past several months.

The annual Lions New Year party will be held at the Bothwell hotel in the Ambassador Room starting at 10:30 o'clock December 31.

The Lions Club annual Independent basketball tournament will be held the latter part of the month an announcement was made. The tournament promises to bring some of the outstanding teams of the state here.

Stab Victim

Theodore Decker, East Sedalia groceryman, found mysteriously stabbed to death at his place of business on November 6, 1947 and for which his former wife is under arrest today suspected in the slaying.

Daughter of Rich Oil Man In Elopement

Glenna Lee McCarthy Weds a Rice Football Player

HOUSTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Glenna Lee McCarthy, pretty 17-year-old daughter of multi-millionaire oilman Glenn McCarthy, eloped Dec. 27 with the son of a Houston shoe cobbler.

The slender girl and George Pontikes, Rice Institute football player, were married by Justice of Peace Oliver Nash at Waco following the Baylor-Rice football game that day.

McCarthy, once a poor boy, could not be reached in recent days about rumors of the marriage, which family spokesmen would not confirm. But today a persistent reporter won this statement from the rich father:

"They are married," McCarthy would not elaborate. But friends of the family said the rich father might make an announcement after the society wedding tonight of an older daughter, Miss Mary Margaret McCarthy.

Pontikes indirectly confirmed the marriage today. Asked by a reporter if he would confirm the marriage tomorrow, the 19-year-old gridiron artist said "Yes," he added:

"Mary Margaret is getting married tonight and I don't want to say anything yet." Mary Margaret is the oldest of five McCarthy children.

The justice of peace who married Glenna Lee and Pontikes said he didn't know she was a daughter of McCarthy.

"They looked like every other young couple very much in love," said Justice Nash Oliver of Waco of Glenna Lee and football player George Pontikes. He said he married them Dec. 2 at Waco.

Pontikes is the son of Angelo K. Pontikes, who has a shoe repair shop here. Mrs. Pontikes, asked if she would comment, said:

"No, I just don't know when I can say anything about it. . . . Oh, I just don't know. George is not in the house now. I'm sorry I can't say anything."

Friends of the McCarthy family said the wavy-haired oil man and financier may have something to say about it after the formal marriage tonight of his older daughter, Mary Margaret, to Harry Richards, Jr. Glenna Lee is to be honor attendant.

McCarthy himself was once a poor boy, who pyramided an early stake in the oil business into an industrial empire which now concerns itself with many products other than oil.

Nash said the couple came to his home in Waco just before dark after the Rice-Baylor football game on Dec. 2. He said they signed an affidavit that Miss McCarthy was more than 18 years old and that Pontikes was 19.

Not Known When the New Tax Program Will go to Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The White House said today President Truman will recommend at appropriate time a much broadened tax program to meet increased defense costs.

Just when the new tax recommendations will go to Congress was not announced.

Joseph H. Short, press secretary, issued a statement to amplify a remark he made last night that he doubted very much there would be a request for new taxes in January.

Food Prices in A Sharp Rise

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP)—In one of the sharpest rises of the year, the Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week soared 10 cents to $6.90—highest since Sept. 14, 1948.

At the new level, the index was 20.6 per cent over the year-ago index of $5.72. The record peak was $7.36 on July 13, 1948.

The index represents the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 foods in general use. Higher this week were wheat, oats, hams, jellies, butter, cheese, cocoa, beans, peas, potatoes, steers, hogs and lambs.

Lower were flour, rye, beef, cottonseed oil and eggs.

Air Raid Alert Test Accorded Mild Response

More Whistles, Bells And Sirens Are Contemplated

Sedalia's "Red Warning" air raid signal test was not the success anticipated by Major H. O. Berry, Civilian Defense Director, in Sedalia. The test did make it possible to work out "flaws" so that in case of an actual raid it will be more successful.

Major Berry following the test said it proved more whistles, more bells, and more siren warnings would be necessary so that everyone would be able to hear the warnings when, and if, they are necessary. This is being studied in arrangements are in the making already to remedy the last of the warning signals throughout Sedalia.

Some Motorists Respond
Little if any cooperation was displayed by motorists in the city as to the request made by Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors, that all cars pull to the curb and stop during the five minute period. It was noted by the "spotters" that many youngsters laughed and continued their merry way down the street during the warning. Adults, too, were lacking in heeding the warnings and obeying the request, but several were noted to pull into a parking place and waited until the "all clear" was sounded.

Major Berry said the work of organization of various groups would be underway within a few days after which a possible test would again be made.

Would Take Place Of Dead Friend

A young man walked into the Selective Service Office Tuesday and asked that he might be inducted on January 15, into the service in the place of his friend. The friend, Samuel Lawson, 23, 726 East Fourth street, died last Thursday at Bothwell hospital from double pneumonia.

The young man felt so bad about the death of his friend who was to have left on January 15, for service that he volunteered to go in his place but he was informed at the Selective Service Office that the notice had already gone out to another man in Lawson's place and he couldn't go at this time.

Reluctantly the young man turned and walked out of the office.

Temperature at Near Zero Mark

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 27.—(AP)—It was a cold night in Missouri, just as the weatherman predicted. The mercury tumbled far below zero in the northern sections leaving readings of seven below at Macon, six below at Tarkio and Kirksville, five below at Chillicothe.

It will be warmer in the west portion tonight, with readings of 10 to 20 expected but in the east the forecast calls for lows of five to 10 above.

Generally fair weather is expected Thursday, with highs of 30 to 35 in the east and 35 to 42 in the west.

Other low readings during the night were one at Columbia, two at St. Joseph, six at Kansas City and St. Louis, seven at Rolla, 10 at Springfield, 13 at Joplin and 14 at West Plains.

Testifies Secret Revealed

Former Wife of Remington Says He Disclosed it as Spy Ring Courier

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The divorced wife of William H. Remington testified today that he turned over "a top secret" formula for explosives to an admitted Russian spy ring courier.

The formula, which was to be forwarded to Russia, would make explosives from garbage, she said.

Mrs. Ann Remington gave the testimony in her second day on the witness stand at the perjury trial of her former husband, a one-time commerce department economist. Remington, 33, denied to a New York federal grand jury that he ever was a member of the Communist party.

Yesterday Mrs. Remington testified they both were members of the party.

Continuing her testimony about the explosive, Mrs. Remington described a series of meetings with a courier who she said she learned later was Elizabeth Bentley.

"At one meeting he (Remington) had information he was very excited about," she said. "He called it top-secret and wanted to be sure it got to Russia."

Hesitant Witness
This was the explosive formula, she said.

At one point today, Mrs. Remington remarked, "I would like to say that I am a very reluctant witness. It is extremely hard to testify against the father of my children, but I hold no malice against him personally."

Mrs. Remington told of a series of meetings around Washington in 1942 between Remington and Elizabeth Bentley, an admitted former Communist courier.

Miss Bentley first named Remington as one of her sources of secret information for the Russians.

Remington denied ever giving her secret information and said he knew her only slightly as a writer, and that under another name.

Mrs. Remington said Miss Bentley used to telephone their home in Alexandria, Va., and arrange meetings with the Remingtons.

She said they were introduced to Miss Bentley in a New York restaurant by a man she knew only as "John." In 1946, she said, she learned he was Jacob Golos, head of a Soviet spy ring.

Mrs. Remington told the jury that Miss Bentley collected monthly Communist party dues from herself and her husband.

Mrs. Remington also declared she and Remington "took orders" from people running Earl Browder's 1940 campaign for president. Browder is the former head of the U. S. Communist party.

She said they held Communist party meetings at their home at Croton-on-Hudson and in their New York City apartment.

Questioned by Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan about who attended the Croton-on-Hudson meetings, Mrs. Remington at first said she preferred not to answer.

Under the instance of Remington's defense lawyer, she then named "a couple named Katz, Sidney Meyer, Katz and his wife, and Helen North, wife of Joe North."

Previously she had mentioned talks at their home between her husband and Joe North, then a writer for New Masses, which she described as a Communist line magazine for intellectuals.

Mrs. Remington told of a Mexico honeymoon with Remington where she said they met Mexican Communist at party headquarters there.

They carried letters of introduction, she said, to Alexander North, brother of Joe North; Ted Allen, correspondent for "New Masses" and his wife; and a Louise Arnel.

Yesterday she testified that they both belonged to Communist groups in their college days.

Shift Industries From Manchuria

HONG KONG, Dec. 27.—(AP)—A dispatch to the pro-Communist newspaper Wen Wei Po indicates Red China may be shifting her heavy industries from Manchuria to the far northwest.

The dispatch from Hankow reported construction projects in the northwest, and appeared to substantiate earlier reports of an industrial shift.

Two weeks ago, the Hong Kong magazine "Newsdom" reported major industrial installations in Manchuria were being dismantled and moved 650 miles southwest to Shansi Province.

Enlistment Rush After Holidays

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The Christmas rush didn't hit the military recruiting offices here until yesterday. About three times the normal number applied for enlistment.

The Army and Air Force had 300 applicants, the Navy 80 and the Marines 55.

Only explanation offered: The boys just wanted to spend Christmas at home.

Gen. Ridgway Tours Front In Army Jeep

Starts on Check Soon After His Joining Troops

By Jack Macbeth

WITH U. N. FORCES NORTH OF SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, new commander of the U. S. Eighth army left today on a jeep tour of the Korean front amid mounting evidence the Reds are about ready to strike.

Ridgway arrived from the United States via Tokyo yesterday. He took over the command of Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, who was killed Saturday in a jeep accident near the front.

Before leaving for the front, Ridgway conferred briefly with corps and divisional commanders.

A high-ranking officer at U. S. ninth corps reported continued enemy buildups at the front, and added:

"They are ready and capable of attacking us at any moment."

The corps spokesman estimated there is one Chinese corps, about 30,000 men, opposite the ROK (Republic of Korea) sixth division and an unknown number of North Koreans are elsewhere along the front.

All along the U. S. first corps front north of Seoul another Chinese corps was reported in position to attack. A buildup was reported in progress which might bring total enemy in this sector to three corps. Senior corps spokesman said allied aircraft continued to hammer enemy concentrations on this front night and day.

'Commies' to Meet Tonight

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The American Communist party, beset by membership and financial worries and its leaders facing jail terms, opens its 15th biennial national convention here tonight.

The convention will begin with public rallies in Manhattan, the Bronx—and in Brooklyn if the party can find a meeting place there. Owners of a hall where the Brooklyn rally was to be staged cancelled the reservation yesterday. The small, separate rallies contrast with two years ago when the public convention was held in Madison Square Garden.

The rallies, however, were expected to be just a backdrop for the real business of the convention—"closed door" sessions at which the Communist high command will exchange views on the future of the shrunken party.

Communist leaders are frankly worried by a drop-off in dues payments, declining membership and the difficulty in maintaining the party organ, the Daily Worker.

Three years ago the party claimed a membership of 100,000. FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover recently put the total at 55,000. Last spring, an official party report on membership gave no overall figure but did admit a 17 per cent drop in 1950 registration over that of 1949.

Eleven members of the party's top echelon face five years in prison, convicted of conspiracy to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

Ten probably will be present at the convention. They are free in bail pending appeal of their conviction. But Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the party and one of those convicted, already is in jail for contempt of Congress.

William Z. Foster, the national chairman, is ill and will not be able to be present.

Carullo Term Cut To Seven Years

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 27.—(AP)—The prison sentence of Thomas Carullo, former Kansas City boxer serving 10 years for possession and passing counterfeit bills, has been reduced to seven years.

Federal district judge Richard M. Duncan issued the order, saying that in a review of the case he had come to the conclusion the maximum penalty should not be imposed in each offense.

Carullo had been sentenced to serve the maximum of five years on each conviction, the terms to run consecutively.

The boxer was convicted last March. He appealed, but his conviction was affirmed by the U. S. Court of Appeals.

Gigantic Force of The Reds In Readiness To Start Big Offensive

Fliers Force 100 Reds to Surrender

U. S. FIFTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Allied Mustang fighter planes were credited today with causing the surrender of nearly 100 Reds on the Eastern Korean front.

Headquarters reported the survivors of repeated strafing attacks threw up their hands and surrendered to U. N. ground forces. The Reds were entrenched in a mountainous sector.

Fifth Air Force pilots reported more than 800 Communists were killed or wounded in North Korea Wednesday.

Fighters and light bombers flew more than 300 sorties. They reported destroying or damaging 234 buildings in 23 towns, an air field, two supply dumps and 20 ox carts.

Griffis to be Ambassador

Is Picked by President For The Post in Spain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—President Truman today picked Stanton Griffis to be American ambassador to Spain, thus ending a 5-year snub of Generalissimo Franco's regime.

Griffis, 63, and a native of Boston, has previously served as ambassador to Poland, Egypt and Argentina.

His appointment to Madrid was forecast a month ago, after signs appeared that America's diplomatic snubbing of Spain would be ended. Relations have been maintained with Franco's one party government, but not at the ambassadorial level.

The United Nations assembly voted early in November to lift a ban in effect against Spain and permit member nations to send ambassadors to Madrid.

Griffis' new appointment will go to the Senate for confirmation when the new Congress meets next week.

Since 1936, he has been chairman of the board of Paramount Pictures. He also is chairman of the board of Madison Square garden and of Brentano's book stores.

Norman Armour, the last American ambassador to Spain, was withdrawn in December, 1945. For most of the intervening period this country has been represented by Paul Culbertson as charge d'affaires.

The Madrid government is expected to name Jose Felix Lequerica, former Spanish minister, as ambassador to Washington.

Lequerica has been in Washington for about two years with the title of "inspector of embassies and legations." For all practical purposes he has been the top Spanish representative here.

Eisenhower at Paris Astoria

PARIS, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The U. S. Army announced today Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's temporary headquarters as supreme commander of the Atlantic Pact Army will be in the Hotel Astoria in Paris.

The Army spokesman said Eisenhower will choose a permanent headquarters later.

It has been hinted that the general might set up headquarters in historic Versailles, outside Paris, where he had headquarters as supreme commander of the Allied expeditionary force in World War II.

Korean Situation At a Glance

By The Associated Press
Fighting front—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters says huge Red forces will soon begin all out offensive. Allies drive off light probing attacks along Korea's midsection. Eighth army commander, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, tells South Korean President Syngman Rhee: "I aim to stay." American fighting morale reported high.

Communist China—Hong Kong dispatch says Red China aims at fighting force of 12,000,000 men by end of 1951.

United Nations—Secretary-General Trygve Lie warns failure of U. N. troops to stop Communists in Korea doom U. N. hopes for achieving its aims elsewhere.

Reserve Unit of Kansas City Called To Action

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The 407th Engineer Combat battalion, a Kansas City organized reserve unit, has been called to active duty.

Lieut. Col. Dured E. Townsend, officer in charge of the reserves here, said the unit would be inducted about January 23 for training at Camp Campbell, Ky.

Army Reaches Into Reserves

Also Dips Into National Guard Units For Duty

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The army has dipped into national guard and organized reserve units for the first time to order 7,500 individual junior officers to duty in March.

And the navy has stowed away plans for releasing reservists next summer.

Those two actions were announced yesterday as the army also disclosed:

1. It will call up (it didn't say when) 100 women's army corps lieutenants and captains.

2. It is ordering to active service 890 additional medical officers; 850 dental officers; and 415 medical service corps officers. These will report in two groups, February 5 and March 15.

In addition, the army expects to issue shortly its draft call for the month of March. The new call probably will not be less than the quotas for January and February—80,000 each month.

Draft calls through February now total about 370,000. The army said the 7,500 guard and reserve lieutenants and captains will report between March 1 and March 22.

Before plucking individual officers from guard and organized reserve units, the army said, all possible of the 7,500 officer quota will be taken from:

1. The national guard and organized reserve volunteers.

2. Organized reserve officers commissioned from the ROTC who were previously deferred and who have one year's prior federal service.

3. Reserve officers from the ROTC who did not execute deferment agreements and who have had less than one year's federal service.

4. Members of the volunteer reserve.

The army said that officers with four or more dependents will be exempted unless they voluntarily requested service. WACS with dependents under 18 years of age will not be ordered to active duty, the army added.

Also excluded will be veterans who have completed the senior ROTC course but who have not completed their college courses. Men in this category may be liable to call after graduation or withdrawal from college.

Details as to Navy
The navy also gave out a few more details on its reserve officer calls. It said that "needed categories" of officers who completed the wartime V-12 college training program will be among those recalled by late spring.

A navy spokesman told a reporter the needed reserve officers are being recalled in this general order:

1. Officers who apply voluntarily for duty. 2. Organized reservists. 3. Volunteer reservists in a drill-pay status, or those who were in V-12 or are graduates of the merchant marine academy or naval academy students who resigned to accept reserve commissions, and 4. All other reserve officers.

Meanwhile, the American Bar Association announced it had received assurances from Secretary of Defense Marshall that where possible lawyers called up will be given duty allowing them to use their legal talents.

Complete Sealing Of Holy Door

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The work of sealing up the holy door of St. Peter's Basilica, symbolically closed Christmas eve by Pope Pius to end the 1950 Holy Year jubilee, was completed today by Vatican workers known as the San Pietrini.

Unless a special jubilee is called, as was done in 1933 in honor of the 1,900th anniversary of the death of Christ, the door will not be opened again until Christmas eve, 1974, for the 1975 Holy Year jubilee.

Let us always remember that God has never promised to supply our wishes, but only our wants, and these only as they arise from day to day.

Estimate That 1,350,000 Are Poised to Start Second Invasion

By Olen Clements

TOKYO, Dec. 27.—(AP)—General MacArthur's headquarters said today more than 1,350,000 Reds are poised to strike at United Nations forces in Korea.

Light attacks were beaten off along Korea's midsection but the Reds still held off their threatened second invasion of South Korea with their vast tide of manpower.

MacArthur estimated 444,406 Reds are deployed along the front stretching across the peninsula south of Parallel 38. He reported 277,173 of those troops are Chinese and the rest are North Koreans.

Nearly a million others, he said, are either enroute to the front or in reserve in Manchuria.

In the forefront of the expected assault is a revamped Red Korean army of 23 divisions and three brigades. Eleven of the divisions were identified during the past 12 days as their patrols probed the Allied defense positions.

Many of the new North Korean divisions are believed comprised of newly trained troops. Headquarters said as many as 130,000 Koreans were reported in training in Manchuria. Headquarters added:

"The enemy has the capability of placing several additional North Korean divisions in the field in the very near future."

Ridgway Aim To Stay
The new Allied field commander in Korea set the motto for his troops. Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway met President Syngman Rhee for the first time and said:

"I aim to stay."

His remark, coupled with redeployment of the 105,000-man U. S. 10th corps in southeast Korea and regrouping of U. S. Eighth army troops all along the 150 mile border, gave mounting indication that the Allies' intend to make a strong fight for the republic.

Chinese and Red Korean patrols probed restlessly for soft spots along the 150-mile border. This is a customary Communist prelude to battle.

Military sources said the Reds when they hit likely will throw massed thousands into battle as they did in North Korea. There they crushed by sheer weight of numbers an Allied offensive and turned the U. S. Eighth army back down the road into South Korea.

Now the Eighth army, including its British, South Korean and other units, is strung along the mountainous defense terrain fronting the Parallel 38 border.

Strong Defense Positions
Sharp valleys and broken mountain terrain stretch along the border. Before the war erupted, both North and South Koreans maintained strong defensive positions there.

Price Freeze Held Up Until Staff is Organized

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 — President Truman was set to order a freeze on all prices as a part of his emergency proclamation, until he had a heart-to-heart talk with economic stabilization director Alan Valentine and price administrator Mike Di Salle.

Mr. Truman called in the two men, outlined his plan and asked for comment. Valentine threw up his hands.

"Mr. President," he said. "I don't know how we could enforce the order. What kind of a staff do you have, Mike?"

"A secretary, a telephone and a legal adviser," replied the usually jovial ex-mayor of Toledo.

"The problem is, Mr. President," added Valentine, "If we can't enforce the freeze, there will be such general disregard that price ceilings will be a joke. We cannot afford to let price stabilization be destroyed before it is strong enough to be effective."

The President then agreed to hold off the price freeze until at least a skeleton staff is organized.

Note—The inescapable fact is that the White House has had months to appoint a price administrator. Three months alone have passed since Congress gave the President power to control all but certain farm prices. (The farm lobby excluded some of these from the price-control legislation.) Furthermore, three ex-price administrators are easily available in or near Washington—Leon Henderson, Paul Porter and retiring Gov. Chester Bowles of Connecticut. However, the President seems to have an inferiority complex about calling on men who served under Roosevelt.

Secret Aluminum Deal

A secret deal has been made between the United States and Canada to expand Canadian aluminum production at the expense of aluminum mills in the United States. However, the Aluminum Corporation of America which operates an affiliate in Canada indirectly will get a windfall.

The deal was arranged in private talks between Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, production boss William Harrison and Canada's Minister of Trade C. D. Howe. By it the United States agrees to furnish steel for building a giant aluminum works in the wilds of British Columbia, which though it will take three years to complete, will eventually produce 500,000 tons of aluminum annually.

The deal follows urgings by ALCOA (Aluminum Company of America) that the government buy more aluminum from Canada. This would throw the business to ALCOA's Siamese twin, ALCAN, and at the same time prevent building up ALCOA's competitors in the U.S.A.

ALCOA's first attempt to swing this deal failed last October, when Stuart Symington and Jess Larson stopped it. However, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer and production boss Harrison have now gone over their heads.

The new Canadian aluminum center will be located at Kitimat, a deserted Indian village in the heart of a virgin forest wilderness. This is only 1,600 miles from Siberian air bases, as compared with proposed American plants on the Gulf Coast, 5,000 miles from Siberia.

Note—This same aluminum corporation of Canada sold 200,000 pounds of precious aluminum to Communist China, 1,000,000 pounds to Communist Poland and 3,000,000 pounds to Communist Czechoslovakia—all after the Communist attack on South Korea. Some of this aluminum is now being used against United Nations troops in Korea.

War Censorship

General MacArthur is leaving it up to his field commanders as to how far they should go in censoring war news. His secret instructions are: "Delay transmission of news and establish news blackout whenever in your judgement military necessity requires such action."

Inside fact is that MacArthur resisted censorship until premature dispatches leaked out about the evacuation of Hungnam. On two previous occasions, the joint chiefs of staff had urged him to clamp censorship on military news, but he ignored their recommendations, explaining it would take 300 censors and he didn't have any. Finally after the Hungnam incident, MacArthur reluctantly ordered war news to be "screened for security."

In the secret instructions sent to all field commanders, MacArthur stressed, "It is not desired to impose complete censorship."

"You will direct your staff, all public information officers and subordinate commanders (a) not to discuss with correspondents any prohibited information; (b) to institute a check for security over all military communication facilities under your command to insure that no message involving breach of security is transmitted (if security is involved the correspondent desiring to transmit same will either agree to elimination of security breaches or the message will be delayed until security is not involved); (c) to direct commercial communication facilities operating in your area to withhold transmission news dispatches until they have been checked for security by your public information personnel."

Isolation Battle

A backstage move to dump Independent Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon and place Homer Capehart, ardent Indiana isolationist, on the Foreign Relations Committee, is being cooked up in Senate cloakrooms.

The diametrically opposing views of these two men were summed up at the recent closed-door Republican caucus.

"We ought to demand that the President not only fire Acheson," Capehart grumbled, "but replace him with a man who disagrees with everything the Secretary of State stand for."

In contrast, Morse cooked his goose with Republican diaphans by arguing against the anti-Acheson resolutions.

Since then the move to substitute Capehart for Morse on the vital Foreign Relations Committee has intensified. It is spearheaded by the powerful Republican Committee on Committees, headed by Hugh Butler, even though Butler virtually promised Morse the Foreign Relations spot last summer. Capehart, however, is a member of the Committee of Committees, as are other members of the GOP isolationist wing.

When Morse caught wind of the switch, he wrote Butler: "I am aware of an attempt being made to keep me off the Foreign Relations Committee. I believe it will be healthy for the Republican conference to have a full discussion on this. I am perfectly willing to lay my record for supporting sound Republican principles alongside the record of any member of the Committee on Committees."

The outcome of this battle will indicate fairly clearly whether future Republican policy will drift isolationist.

Bright Glean in a Dark World

It's heartening news that Marshall Plan aid to Britain can be suspended next year because the British don't need it any more.

If the world were not darkened by the cloud of Soviet-Chinese aggression, this development undoubtedly would be celebrated with genuine enthusiasm. But in Britain it means no end to the long, exhausting economic battle that began with World War II in 1939.

Austerity must continue, for Britons now face the job of arming themselves all over again to meet a new foe. With our help, they have pulled up to a position of strength, only to find they must commit that strength to military rather than peacetime purposes.

This is one of the real tragedies of the post-war era: that economic health cannot be sought and held for its own sake but must be thought of as a "bulwark against communism."

But at least we can be thankful that one nation in Europe made it all the way back before being engulfed in a new world conflagration.

Red Words vs. Red Deeds

Dig out the Russian Communist primer and you read that Communists stand for the people. Their party is the party of the worker, the downtrodden. Just string along with them, and everything will be fine for you.

Let's see how this works out in practice. The other day the Soviet Embassy in Washington was disclosed to be installing some fire-fighting equipment (presumably in anticipation of air raids staged by (guess-who).

For this task, the party of the people put its trust in non-union men, not in the organized workers who are supposed to be the symbol of the workingman the world over.

The Doctor Says—

It Takes Time to Regain Strength After Severe Illness

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Getting over an operation or a severe illness is no fun. I was operated on 12 days ago for gallstones," a worried woman writes. "Have been up each day but still feel weak. Is it because I do not exercise enough? How long will the drawing sensation remain in my abdomen?"

This woman is not the only one who gets discouraged by the slow rate at which she regains her strength and spirits. In fact depression of spirits at this stage of convalescence is the rule rather than the exception. It isn't anyone's fault, though. It is just that a severe illness or operation takes a lot more out of the system than is realized at the time.

But this period of convalescence is shorter now and less like to be "stormy" than it used to be because of many improvements in surgery, the use of blood and plasma transfusions, and the system of getting patients out of bed sooner.

All of these help, but the recovery still takes time. Just how long depends on the nature of the operation or illness, the age and physical condition of the patient and many other things.

In addition to the improvement

mentioned convalescence requires a proper balance between rest and exercise, and of course a diet adjusted to particular needs.

At first, after a big operation like removal of gallstones, the patient doesn't care what happens. This is followed by discomfort and later impatience that normal feeling doesn't come back faster.

Usually the doctor can tell before the patient that everything is going all right. Better color of the lips—whether natural or applied—is one such sign. Sometimes a patient resents being told he is better because he doesn't feel better even though he will in a day or two.

Prepare for Siege

By the time the lady who had the gallbladder operation reads this she will probably feel much stronger and the drawing sensations in her abdomen will doubtless have disappeared. It is time that brings these results and the fact that she was not on top of the world twelve days after surgery is certainly not surprising.

Since most people have an operation or severe illness at some time during life it is not a bad idea to be prepared for the physical and mental discouragement through which almost everyone passes during convalescence.

If Pop Dawdles at the Bar Look For the Reason at Home

How to get a husband to come straight home from work at night? That's one reader's problem, and one that is no doubt shared by a number of wives.

She writes: "Lately, instead of coming straight home from work my husband stops off for a beer or two, and I've no way of knowing whether he'll arrive for dinner at six o'clock or eight-thirty. I've complained about it, which hasn't done any good at all. What do I do now?"

Well, you could make your complaints even louder. Or you could decide to "fix" your husband by some kind of retaliation. That's the way a lot of wives would meet the situation.

But if you're wise you'll look beyond your irritation at your husband's coming home late night after night. Acknowledge the fact that there must be some reason why he is reluctant to come home when his day's work is done, and try to find out what is the matter.

Maybe This Will Help

Maybe you'll find the reason if you'll ask yourself a few questions and answer them honestly. Does your husband have a well-run, pleasant home to return to in the evening? That is, do you do all you can to make your home comfortable, attractive and inviting?

In the past, when he used to come home on time, were you always there waiting for him with dinner ready and with a smiling welcome for him?

If he has troubles on his mind can he count on you to listen sympathetically and to try to help him figure out an answer?

If there are children, do you take care of disciplinary measures as they arise during the day? Or do you tell the children, "Just wait until your Dad gets home. He is going to hear about this?"

There are many different reasons why a husband might put off his evening home coming as long as possible. But most of them boil down to this: For some reason or other, he doesn't feel that his home is going to offer him a real welcome.

Be honest with yourself. Is the home you make unable to compete with a beer joint?

XXXIII
MARGIE LOU reached out to put her hand on Eddie's arm, but remembered. "I'm sorry it had to happen to you. Is it pretty bad?" They were on a darker side street now.

"It's a lot easier for us than for you. We know everything's all right. You and the others don't. Living and dying aren't so important, really. You find that out after you've done both. The only thing bad is when you meet somebody like you, Margie, and it's too late."

Margie gave a contented woman's laugh. "It's not too late. We can be together this way, Eddie. We'll belong to each other forever."

Forever—the sad, futile word that lovers use. For Eddie there was only the time until dawn. He couldn't tell her yet. Let her have what happiness she could until they had to part again.

She went on, planning, as women do, for an impossible, sorrowless future. "We won't ever have to be separated. Why, we could really be married. You could say, 'I take you, Margie Lou, to be my lawfully wedded wife.' Say that, Eddie."

He did.

"And I say, 'I take you, Eddie, to be my lawfully wedded husband, to love and cherish forever and ever, till death do us—'"

She stopped. "Oh, Eddie, it's happened already." She began to weep.

"Don't cry, sweetheart. I can't even lend you my handkerchief—it's in my other pants."

She laughed brokenly through her tears. "I'll be all right. I always hoped my husband, if I ever had one, would be able to make me laugh no matter if I thought everything was all wrong until he told me different. Nothing can hurt us now, can it? The worst thing happened before we ever met. And when I die it will be the happiest day of my life. That's because you'll be right there waiting."

EVERYTHING made it tough for Eddie. He didn't know where he would be at any time in the future. Except for the next few hours he wasn't sure that he would continue to exist even as a helpless shadow. Better not think of that.

"There's something I want you to do, Margie Lou," he said briskly. "We'll go to Kirsten Peterson's house, and you must give her a message from me."

Margie Lou's interest was aroused. He told her the necessity for warning Kirsten to keep out of Max Lengel's way. Naturally Margie Lou was all sympathy.

It took quite a while to get to Kirsten's little white house. Eddie could have been there instantly but Margie Lou had to walk. Kirsten was awake. She listened gravely to the other girl's story. "Thank you," she said when she had heard it. "I can take care of myself now that I know. Not that it matters. My husband, Carl, is dead so nothing matters to me."

"You have had a telegram?" Margie Lou asked.

"Not yet. But I am sure."

Eddie said to Margie Lou, "He's standing right beside her."

"It is all right," Kirsten continued. "The way things are it is better that we should not be together for a little while. We shall meet sometime."

"Don't worry about Kirsten," Carl told Eddie. "I'll be with her until reveille. I think she knows I'm here."

There was so much that Margie Lou and Eddie had to tell each other that it was after midnight when they reached the house where her aunt's apartment was.

THE A B C's OF DRY CLEANING

By Doc Bob, Your Dry Cleaner

Metallic fabrics cannot be considered serviceable. They are subject to tarnish merely from exposure to gases in the atmosphere about us, from perspiration, and from many stains. The skilled plant operator can sometimes remove tarnish or reduce it. So when you buy a frock of metallic fabric, do so with the understanding that it is decidedly a luxury fabric. Your cleaner may be able to keep it in a presentable condition for a while.

Recently, many types of fabrics have been printed with a gold or silver design to simulate the metallic fabrics. The performance of these fabrics in use is unpredictable.

The centerpiece on the dining room table was made of dolls, many being from distant lands, China, Cuba, Switzerland and Scotland, all from Martha's growing collection of dolls from many places which now includes ten foreign countries.

Games were played in the afternoon after which refreshments of molded Santa Claus ice cream and tea cakes were served in the dining room.

Mrs. Kuhlman was assisted in serving and in entertaining the little girls by her daughter, Miss Mary Ann Kuhlman and Miss Joan Wodick, who are both home from college for the holidays.

Guests at the party were: Barbara Buso, Kay Caraway, Annette Flower, Sylvia Kay Richardson, Gloria Robb, Patricia Seifner, Catherine Steffen, Marilyn Sherman, Jo Ann Smith, Caroline Weinhold and Linda Wiesing.

Miss Norton's picture appeared in the El Paso Herald Post on Tuesday, December 5 as one of the duchesses to attend the Sun Queen and with a group on December 2 in another El Paso paper. Expect to Meet Demands on Oil

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP)—The oil industry heads into a new and troubled year with civilian demand for its products already at an all-time peak.

Oil is an essential of modern war. But most oilmen insist that in spite of the headaches they expect in 1951 the industry should be able to satisfy both military and civilian demand next year—if given half a break.

Military demand is bound to rise in the months ahead as the Army adds new tanks and trucks, the Air Force adds new planes and the Navy adds more ships and sails more miles.

But the nation's oil productive capacity is rising, too. The industry has been pouring $2 billion a year into expansion and modernization. More wells than ever are being drilled. Oilmen are fighting to see that enough steel is allocated them.

Oil men disagree as to how much reserves the nation could tap in a long-term emergency. Some estimate domestic production—which averaged around 5,405,000 barrels a day this year—could be stepped up by 1,315,000 more barrels a day, if the military gave the word, others have said perhaps only 680,000 barrels a day could be added efficiently, over a protracted term. By "efficiently" oilmen mean the maximum amount that can be pumped from the nation's wells without loss of potential oil—if more than the efficient amount is pumped daily, some of the underground oil seeps away and is lost forever.

But whatever the amount of oil that could be pumped efficiently over a long period, the nation is now in a position to assure itself of synthetic oil from its vast coal reserves. Although the process is still too expensive for commercial use—in the opinion of some oilmen—the government is now producing gasoline from coal in impressive quantities at its experimental plant in Louisiana, Mo. In an emergency, when expense is no object, the United States could count on a synthetic gasoline industry, just as it can on a synthetic rubber industry.

Block Roads in Search of Stone

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Scotland Yard detectives today sought the owner of a wrist watch, possible clue to the husky snatcher who took the historic stone of Scone from Westminster Abbey Christmas day.

Police appealed for identification of the Swiss-made watch. It was found near the Royal Coronation Chair from under which the 458-pound—that's the weight officials now give—chunk of sandstone, symbol of Scottish sovereignty for more than 1,200 years, was dragged.

The weight-lifting culprits are believed to be Scottish patriots who staged their bold and arduous venture spurred by the dreams of the independence Scotland lost in the union of 1707.

With the stone believed still south of the border, police continued to block all north-bound roads, stopping and searching cars and trucks. Other details watched airports.

The stone of Scone used to be in the abbey of Scone in Perthshire. On it, for more than 400 years, Scotland crowned its kings. Then England's Edward I, known as "Hammer of the Scots," seized it as a war trophy in 1296 and had it placed in London's Westminster Abbey.

Since then it has rested on a shelf built into the Coronation Chair where Britain's kings are crowned.

The Anglo-Scottish treaty of Northampton in 1328 provided that the stone be returned to the proud Scots.

Scrap Metal Barges Held

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Three West German barges carrying scrap metal from Berlin have been held for four days in the Soviet zone, allied officials reported today.

They said they were pressing an inquiry into the case with Russian authorities, who have conducted a sporadic "battle of barges" with the West this year.

Pending further investigation, the allied officials said no reprisals against Soviet zone barges in West Berlin canals were under consideration.

The new barge trouble came on the heels of an informal warning by the Soviet commandant of the interzonal frontier at Helmstedt that Germans would not be allowed to cross in allied automobiles.

Allied officials said the warning was given orally, but even if it were in writing, they would not accept it.

Many Germans are employed by the western powers to drive government-owned vehicles, they pointed out. No serious delay of German drivers or passengers has been reported at the frontier recently.

Six Charges on Revolt Leader

Charges against the Nationalist party leader include attack with intent to kill, subversive activities and four violations of laws requiring registration of firearms.

Judge Rodolfo Ramirez Pabon gave the 63-year-old Albizu Campos 15 days to reply to the charges, all of which were brought under Puerto Rican laws.

Bail for Albizu Campos was set Nov. 13 at $95,000.

Not Satisfied On Rail Pact

Grand Chief of Engineers Says it Will be up to Union

CLEVELAND, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The head of a big railroad operating union expressed dissatisfaction today with a three-year peace pact reached with American railroads in Washington last Friday. He said it would be up to the union's general chairman to decide whether to accept it.

James P. Shields, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said he would present details of the settlement to about 125 general chairmen who will convene here tomorrow.

Shields said he would make no recommendation to the meeting. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen also have called meetings of their general chairmen.

The trainmen will convene here Jan. 4. On the same date, chairmen of the firemen's union will meet here.

The agreement, announced last Friday by the White House, would raise the wages of about 300,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen, retroactive to Oct. 1. A railroad official estimated the agreement would cost the roads $131,000,000 a year.

Object to Moratorium "I'm not very well satisfied with the agreement," Shields told a reporter. "We don't like the three-year moratorium on further wage movements. And there are not sufficient increases for road engineers."

For about 180,000 road service workers, the settlement called for a retroactive increase of five cents an hour and another five cents on Jan. 1. For about 120,000 yardmen, the retroactive increase was 23 cents, with another two cents on Jan. 1. In each case an additional provision was for a cost of living adjustment as consumer prices rise or fall.

At Cedar Rapids, Iowa, an authorized spokesman for the order of railway conductors said "We're not satisfied with the peace pact either and we've called a meeting of our chairmen at St. Louis on January 7 for the purpose of deciding whether to accept it."

The spokesman, who declined to be quoted by name, said about 75 ORC chairmen would be present.

Gigantic Force of The Reds in Readiness to Start Big Offensive

east of Chunchon, in the center of the peninsula. The Eighth army reported Chinese Reds massing north and northwest of Seoul, the South Korean capital.

Allied airplanes hammered at the Communist gathering close behind the front lines. The Far East Air Forces bomber command sent B-29s against enemy forces near 38. Fifth Air Force and British carrier-based warplanes joined the air attack.

South Korean troops methodically cut to pieces a North Korean regiment surrounded south of Chorwon, near the center of Parallel 38.

MacArthur said South Korean forces contained an enemy attack near Taedong which lasted for nearly an hour Tuesday. Some small ground gains were made by the Communists but original positions were restored later.

MacArthur said a South Korean unit which had been surrounded Sunday northeast of Yongpo fought an all-night battle with the Reds. By late afternoon Christmas day the South Korean unit broke through the enemy lines and joined other friendly forces in the area.

Another U. N. force attacked 400 Reds in the same area but there was no report on the result.

Maj. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell's bomber command summary said B-29s made their heaviest attack of the day on Kumhwa, important highway and railroad center 54 miles north of Seoul.

One group of superforts ranged up to the Manchurian border to bomb the central town of Konha. No anti-aircraft fire was encountered by the Far East air forces planes and those from the British carrier Theseus off the Korean west coast.

AP correspondent William Barnard at Eighth army headquarters reported the Chinese were massing in two areas near Yonchon, 35 miles due north of Seoul, and west of Kuhwa, northwest of Seoul. This latter force was north of the Imjin river defense line on the U. N.'s extreme left flank.

Continue "Feelers" An Eighth army spokesman said the Reds continued probing attacks trying to feel out Allied strength. He also reported light and scattered Communist activity on the central and eastern front.

The briefing officer made no mention of two Chinese companies that earlier had swept within 27 miles of Seoul.

The close approach of the Chinese launched an exodus of Koreans from the capital. President Rhee told citizens it would be better if they ter if they left now because the roads might be needed later for heavy military traffic.

Streetcars were not operating in the city. The motormen were getting their families out.

Communist propaganda pamphlets began reappearing on the streets, hailing the prospective return of the Reds who first captured Seoul six months ago and were ousted Sept. 27.

In a late Wednesday summary Maj. Gen. Earle E. Partridge reported his Fifth Air Force planes had stunned Communist troops into surrendering on the eastern mountain sector. Partridge said F-51 Mustang pilots worked over a ridge where the Communists were dug in.

Nearly 100 Reds who survived the air attack were seen to throw away their weapons and come out with their hands up. U. N. troops from the area took them prisoner.

Partridge's pilots reported they killed or wounded nearly 300 Reds at a village between Kaesong and Chorwon. Another flight from the U. S. 49th Wing killed or wounded 200 Communists north of Allied held Chunchon.

Widow Slaying Suspect

improbable that Decker had caused self inflicted wounds taking his life. The stabbing was done by a long narrow butcher knife, and apparently, at the time indicated suicide. The knife was found on the floor near the body.

Members of the Decker family were never satisfied with the investigation at the time declaring they felt Theodore had not committed suicide. After Prosecuting Attorney Brown took office they appealed to him again to resume the investigation and it was continued at considerable expense to the county, resulting in the filing of the information today.

Wife Sought Divorce At the time of the incident it was brought out that Decker had been despondent over the filing of suit for divorce by his then wife, Genevieve E. Decker on November 1, in which petition "general indignities" were alleged. They had been married April 16, 1929, and separated in October 1947.

Decker stayed in Dresden with Arnold on the night of November 5 and came to Sedalia with him early that morning to open their two grocery stores. Decker had operated his store from 1941 until time of his death, except when he was in the service during World War II. Mrs. Decker handled the business at that time.

No hearing was set for the suit by Magistrate Harold W. Barrick. The reason given was that it was understood Fred F. Wesner would be retained as her attorney. He is out of the state, so setting of the hearing date will await his return. The first part of January. At that time the case will come before W. W. Blain, who will take over as magistrate January 1 and Mike Bogutski will become prosecuting attorney.

This official, who did not want to be quoted by name, said administration leaders would begin talking over the tax situation with Congressional tax leaders shortly after the new Congress convenes January 3. He added that the administration would present its tax proposals to the Congress in a "few weeks."

It was after Mr. Truman had dinner with four of his top advisers last night that Short told reporters: "I doubt very much there will be a request for new taxes in January."

Clues Are Sought In Slaying

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Kansas City police today were seeking clues in the slaying of Anthony J. Ciccerello, 44-year-old ex-convict from Milwaukee.

Ciccerello was found shot to death yesterday in a field near a Kansas City power plant. Police said the shooting occurred Christmas night.

Lieut. Harry Nesbitt of the Kansas City police homicide unit said the body was identified last night by Ciccerello's wife, Frances, 27.

Some signs indicated a gangland slaying, but others did not, Nesbitt said.

Police said a bullet entered Ciccerello's skull from the top, indicating he was kneeling or sitting when shot.

Milwaukee police said Ciccerello had a long police record, including arrests for carrying concealed weapons, burglary, robbery and assault.

Nesbitt quoted Mrs. Ciccerello as saying she and her husband had spent the two months at Houston where they separated after a quarrel Friday night. She said she returned to Kansas City Saturday night.

Hal Boyle

C O L U M N

By Saul Pett
(For Hal Boyle)
NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(P)—Think of all that goes into a Hollywood movie.

Think of the acres of studio lots, of the huge sets and the actors, writers, directors and army of technicians. Of the producers and assistant producers and assistant assistants. Of the story conferences and swimming pools and the assistant swimming pools.

Now think of Stanley Kubrick. He makes movies, too. Professional movies.

He's only 22. He doesn't own a swimming pool or a studio or a home or an office. He lives in a 1-room Greenwich Village apartment, which is his office. His only permanent staff is his wife. He doesn't even own a camera or a single spot light or an ulcer.

Kubrick is working on a full-length movie which he insists can be done for only $50,000. He doesn't own that either. Very few non-Western full-length pictures have been made for less than $200,000.

Less than a year ago, Kubrick was a staff photographer on a picture magazine. His obsession was movies. He thought they could be made more artistically for less money.

So he saved his money and learned the movie business by watching movies. Some pictures he saw as many as 10 times, studying them carefully.

"I had always been interested in movies," he says. "I wanted to get into it. It seemed like the most direct way was to make one myself."

While still employed at the magazine, he spent his nights preparing a shooting script. A friend in the Bronx composed background music.

With $3,000 which he had saved and $2,000 which he borrowed from a bank, he went to work. His locations were real apartments and streets and an arena. His cast was made up of real people, not actors. He did everything else himself from directing to arranging the lights, stands and reflectors.

Story of Tension

Within six shooting days, he had himself a 12-minute short titled "The Day of the Fight." Dramatically, it tells the story of the rising tension that plagues a boxer as a bout approaches. The fighter in this case was Walter Cartier, a club performer whose performance almost ruined the picture.

"Walter was fine in the scenes before the fight," Kubrick recalls. "But he made the fight itself too short. He finished the other guy in the second round. So, much later, we had to reshoot some of the fight scenes and it took some persuasion to get the other boxer and the referee and handlers back for a retake."

The picture cost $5,000 and Kubrick sold it to RKO "at an impressive profit." RKO liked his work so well they had him direct a documentary short about a flying priest in New Mexico. That was last October.

About the same time, Kubrick and a poet-friend, Howard O. Sackler, wrote a full-length script about four soldiers caught behind enemy lines. It is an allegory full of action and symbolism concerning man's search for his own identity.

"I'm certain we can do it for $50,000," Kubrick says. "The answer is careful planning. We have worked out on paper every scene, every shot. There will be no writers, producers, directors or art directors to contend with. There won't be any time lost in argument or discussion. There will be only one boss—me."

"There will be no sets. We'll shoot the whole thing outdoors. We'll have only four principal actors and 10 extras. He'll use professional cameramen and grips and electricians and sound engineers, but we'll only need them for 15 or 20 shooting days. We'll rent all the equipment."

Kubrick plans to start shooting either this winter in California, or next spring in the East.

"All we need," he says, "is some forest and hills."

And the money?

A bank is putting up half, Kubrick says, and a business man is putting up the rest.

"It's a nice way," he adds, "to make a movie, to make some money, to have some fun and creative satisfaction."

The Christmas party of the Van Natta Multi-workers 4-H club was held at the schoolhouse on Monday night, December 18, with a perfect attendance of 27 members. Also present were 21 guests, two of them joining the club. They were Mary Frances Wimer and Billy Curtis.

The program committee was in charge of the entertainment. The program included group singing of the Christmas carols, a piano number by Mary Frances Wimer, speech by Langdon Stork, duet by Rose and Betty Tout, baton twirling by Virginia Landes, accompanied by Ann Harding, accordion piece by Mrs. Sam Long and a piano number by Richard Turner. Lloyd Williams was the announcer and Ann Harding accompanied the group singing.

A short business session was called after the program with DeWayne Stork, president in charge. Roll was called, quotes read and new members invited into the club.

Some of the members met at the schoolhouse before the meeting and decorated a Christmas tree. In each window was a red candle in a yule candle holder made by Gordon Fiedler, Bobby Turner, Langdon Stork, Harry Long, Daniel Gallah, and George Buchholz. Also, a three-candle decoration adorned the piano.

After gifts were distributed refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. T. Turner and Mrs. John Ballah.

The next meeting will be in January at the schoolhouse.

U. S. Sugar Quota for '51 Cut 700,000 Tons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(P)—The Agriculture department has announced it will limit marketing of sugar in the United States to 8,000,000 tons in 1951.

This is 150,000 tons more than the department estimated was consumed this year. The 1951 quota compares with 8,700,000 recommended by industrial users and a minimum of 7,300,000 urged by domestic producers.

The department said the 1951 quota is expected to "maintain stable prices, to allow unrestricted

Mrs. C. H. Williams, 402 Hawthorne Street, Abbeyville, Louisiana, says if folks would smile and forget their worries they'd all feel lots better, too. Mrs. Williams says she has lots to smile about... thanks to HADACOL. Mrs. Williams found that by taking HADACOL she helped to overcome a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Williams' own statement "I guess it was over a year ago when I really started to feel mighty bad. When I say I was feeling bad I'm not telling a story—I just didn't have one bit of energy. I was tired all the time. I had to do my housework in spells... rest a while and then work a bit. I couldn't eat a full meal either—I guess I didn't eat enough to keep a bird alive. There was many a night I didn't get but a few hours' sleep. Imagine going to bed and then rolling and tossing most of the night. So many of my friends had been praising HADACOL that I finally decided to try HADACOL. After three bottles of HADACOL I could tell a definite improvement... now, after taking HADACOL for over a year, I feel just wonderful. I am not tired or restless during the day; I can do all my housework and still have energy to spare. Sleep—why, I sleep like a top just as soon as my head hits the pillow I doze off. And the most wonderful thing is that I can actually eat the way a person should eat—and I really enjoy my food. HADACOL is absolutely wonderful. There is nothing like HADACOL. I recommend it to all my friends and neighbors."

Folks All Over the Country whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron have been helped by HADACOL and HADACOL can help you, too, if you suffer from stomach distress, certain nervous disturbances, insomnia caused by upset stomach, vague aches and pains, or a general run-down condition, if they are due to such deficiencies.

That's the kind of product you want—that's the kind you should buy and that's the kind you should start taking NOW!

Start Today! ...give HADACOL a chance to help you, as it has helped others whose systems lacked Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size, $1.25, or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL does not help you, your money will be refunded. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

Jayhawks Are 8 to 5 Favorites In Big Seven

Sellouts Expected For Finals in Tournament

By Skipper Patrick
KANSAS CITY, Dec. 27—(P)—Fabulous Phog Allen's Kansas Jayhawks, 8 to 5 favorites to win the championship, open the fifth annual Big Seven conference basketball tournament against Iowa State tonight.

The Kansas-Iowa State game goes on at 9 o'clock (EST), followed by Minnesota, the guest team from the Big Ten, and Colorado at 10:30.

The first round will be completed tomorrow night with Missouri meeting Oklahoma and Missouri playing Nebraska.

Near capacity crowds of more than 9,500 are expected for the first two nights. Sellouts are expected Friday and Saturday.

Kansas, twice a finalist but never the tournament kingpin, is favored mainly because of Big Clyde Lovellette, 6 foot 8 1/2 inch junior center.

Lovellette has been stopped only twice in his collegiate career. Oklahoma held him to 9 points late last season. Bill Spivey, Kentucky's tall man, limited Clyde to 10 points as the Wildcats humbled Kansas 68-39, a couple of weeks ago.

Since there is not a Bill Spivey in the tournament, Kansas was rated as favorite to win the meet.

There was considerable speculation today as to whether Allen, today as a rotating center, would return to his strategy of taking the ball out-of-bounds after personal fouls instead of attempting the free shots.

Phog had his Jayhawks "keeping" the ball instead of shooting the free ones in winning five of their six games. Kansas attempted all free throws against Kentucky.

The games will be played in quarterly periods instead of the customary halves.

Kansas State, which has lost only to Long Island university by a single point and to Indiana by six points in eight games, is rated 5 to 2 in the championship book making.

Missouri and Oklahoma each begin at 4-1.

Minnesota, which has been beaten only by Oklahoma and last week-end avenged that setback, is 5-1, Iowa State 10-1 and Nebraska and Colorado 15-1.

Tall Missouri Cagers Win

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Dec. 27—(P)—A couple of tall Missourians supplied a thrilling finish last night in the first round of the seventh annual mid-west collegiate basketball tournament.

Central Missouri State of Warrensburg, Mo., nosed out Indiana Central, 75 to 72, in an extra session game.

Jim Hoverder, the Mules' six-foot, six-inch center, scored all of his team's points in the extra period, three field goals and a free throw. It was his team mate Glen Kammeyer, who is an inch taller, who tied the score at 68-68 just seven seconds before the regular playing time ended.

Wheaton's Cardinals defeated Franklin college, 72 to 67, in the other first round game.

Would Ease Ban On 'Pro' Deals

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 27—(P)—An estimated 250 high school officials from throughout the nation tonight began studying proposals to ease a ban on professional baseballs dealing with high school athletes.

The coaches, teachers and education officials are here for the annual meeting of the national federation of state high school athletic associations.

H. V. Porter of Chicago, federation executive secretary, said several proposals aimed at softening the hands-off bar to baseball scouts would be up for discussion. The rule expires after 1951, and the major-minors meeting in St. Petersburg recently voted against renewing it.

The federation is made up of state associations in 46 states, Texas and Rhode Island, the non-member states, also are expected to send representatives.

Wilkinson For Return to Single Wing

Anxious For Play At Football as of Fifteen Years Ago

By Ted Smits

NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 27—(P)—Bud Wilkinson believes college football can develop in one of three directions:

1—Toward a limited number of plays capable of being adapted to a changing defense.

2—Toward what he calls the "S.M.U. style" which is to spread out everyone all over the field and pass repeatedly—"and if your receiver is better than the man covering him, then you'll gain."

3—A return to the single wing style and football as it was played 15 years ago.

Wilkinson, famous coach of the nation's number one team, the University of Oklahoma, made these remarks before taking his squad south for a Sugar Bowl encounter New Year's day with Kentucky.

Wilkinson is as scholarly as he is popular. His predictions on the future of football are of course based on the assumption present rules will not be vitally changed.

"Football," he says, "has always been a development of what is done defensively. When I was a quarterback at Minnesota back in the 30's we used only one defense. Now every team uses a half dozen or more and shifts them continuously."

"We think the rules definitely favor the offense. And this is the rule that favors the offense most of all—the placing of the ball in play 18 yards from the sidelines, which is so near the center that there is no such thing as lateral field position. You can run to either side. Naturally the free substitution rule and the fact you can pass from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage also help."

Count on Outguessing
"The defense today is counting on outguessing the offense. You line up to look like six men on the line and then just before the ball is snapped you switch to four or even eight."

"The only way the offensive team can offset this is to adjust the play after the ball is snapped."

That brought Wilkinson to a discussion of the trend of football development he listed as number one. He explained how it applies to the Oklahoma team, operating from the sliding or split T formation:

"We try to retain the option. On our basic end run play, number 28, called the 'keeper' or 'pitch out,' the quarterback gets the ball and moves along the line of scrimmage toward the defensive end. We don't block the end. If the end crashes in, then our quarterback tosses the ball laterally to the halfback. If the end boxes to protect the outside, then the quarterback fakes a lateral and turns up field himself."

Other Oklahoma plays that can develop in several ways after the ball is snapped are of course more complex.

Of the number two future for football, the "S.M.U. style," Wilkinson said:

"By spreading the players all over the field, the game is reduced to a personal basis. The passer is so deep you can't rush him. If you have the other fellow a little out-manned, you will look like a million bucks with this game, that is, if your receiver is better than the man covering him. If football turns this way it will cease to be the team game it is now."

The number three possibility, the return to the single wing, Wilkinson added almost as an after thought and it was obvious he did not favor it. Wilkinson played under the single wing at Minnesota.

"The single wing has this advantage—when the defense is not honest you can ride 'em out with power blocking."

By a "dishonest defense" Wilkinson meant one that was legal

News Events of 1950 In Picture Review

MOVING THE MO—January of 1950 saw nation's only battleship on active duty, U. S. S. Missouri, stuck on a Chesapeake Bay mudflat. Here tugboats strain to budge the Mighty Mo.

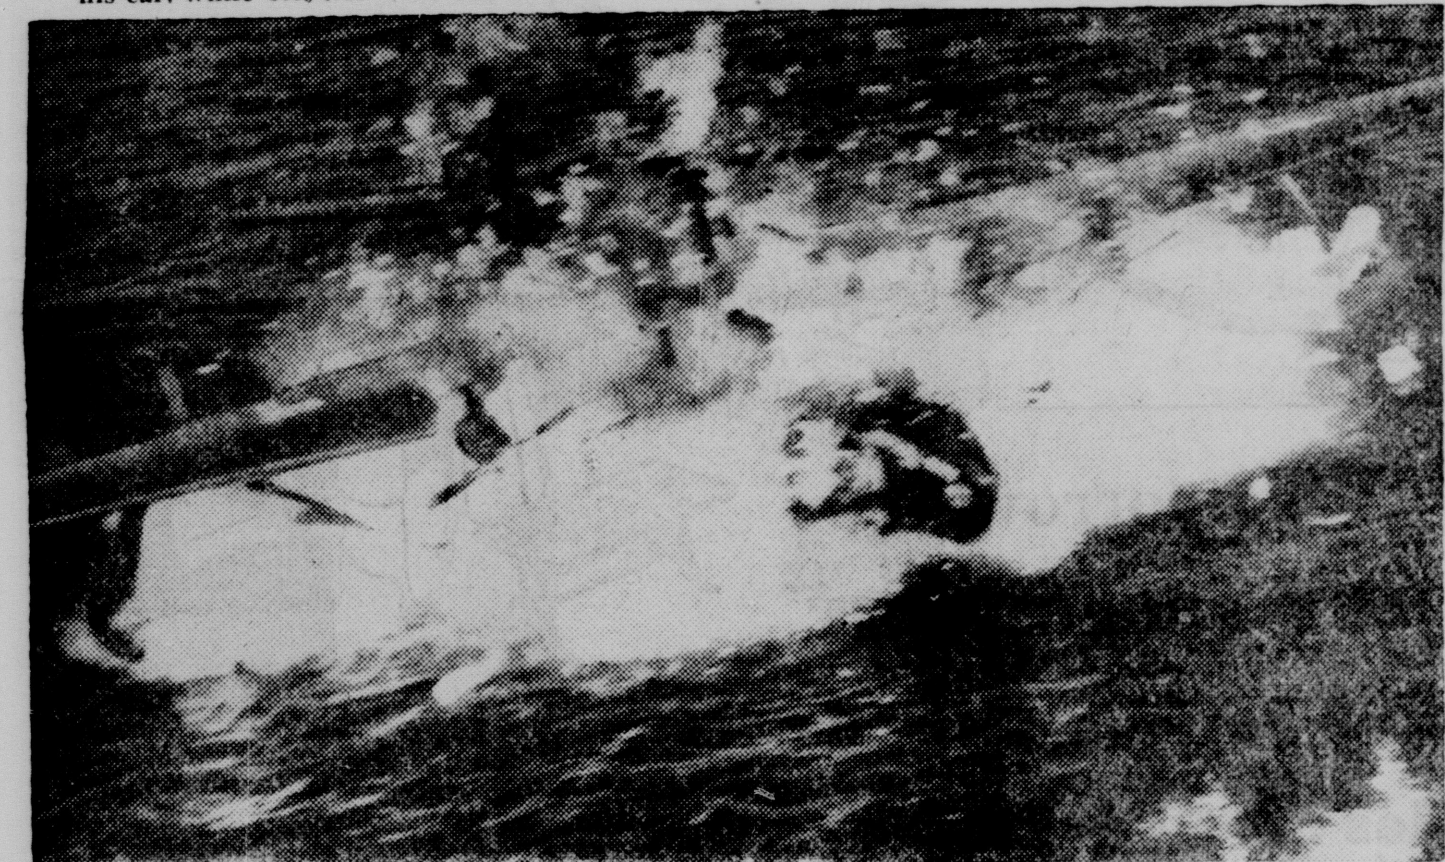

AFTER THE DELUGE—In 1950's major flood last May in Winnipeg, Manitoba, necessity was the mother of invention as this car owner rigged up a rope and pulley from a tree to save his car, while bicycles were washed to the roof of his home.

IN BATTLE OF WORDS—Wisconsin's Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (left) wagged admonishing finger often in 1950 as he made charges of Communist infiltration in State department. Owen Lattimore (right), April 15, in Washington, denied McCarthy's allegation that Lattimore was "Russia's top spy" in U. S.

CHICAGO'S DISASTER—Firemen and rescue workers remove bodies of more than 30 victims after crash of a street car with a gasoline truck in Chicago last May 25. Car passengers were trapped as the truck's gasoline set the trolley afire.

NAVY FLYING BOAT EXPLODES—Rarely has such a dramatic picture been obtained in this view of the U. S. Navy flying boat Marshall Mars, taken as it exploded near Honolulu, April 6, by Joe Martin. Navy aviation photographer, from a helicopter.

The plant from which castor oil is obtained is a native of tropical Africa.

'Stone of Destiny' Stolen

The 336-pound, priceless Stone of Scone, resting beneath the coronation throne in Westminster Abbey, London, has been stolen. The throne itself was damaged as thieves dragged it from its niche and across the floor of the abbey. The sandstone rock, whose legend goes back into the mists of time, was an important fixture in the coronation of British kings since the time of Edward the First. It bears no inscription but in the old days most Scottish kings were crowned at Scone in Scotland and the stone was used for the ceremony. (AP Wirephoto)
